A fast paced story with the 8th Doctor and his new traveling companion, Mary Shelly. Set in Vienna in the 19th century, the Doctor introduces Mary to time travel and one of his biggest nightmares, Cybermen. Great casting overall, with Cox as Mary Shelly stealing the show with her perfect blend of innocence and strength.

this is a very unique cybermen story and that's what I like about this one

Awesome

Loved it! Honestly this may be one of the best Doctor Who audio dramas out there. The first two parts are a bit slow but things really pick up in parts three and four.

This serial represents the first full outing of Horror legend Mary Shelley as the Doctor's companion as she finds herself unexpectedly flung more than 60 years forward in time in Vienna, Austria where she and the Doctor run into the Silver Turk, a strange automaton who plays the piano and plays games with all comers, but as we quickly learn is actually a Mondas Cyberman. What are the Cybermen doing on Earth in the 19th Century? Who or what is behind a series of bizarre murders where the corpses are stolen? Overall, this is a very dark story, accentuated by a creepy score. It has many horror elements, but is also a classic Cyberman story that tells the fate of those who help the Cybermen hoping for gratitude. It imagines how Mary could have had a meeting with the Cybermen that shaped how she'd write Frankenstein. Julia Cox is great as Mary Shelley, portraying a character who is brave, resourceful, and still not sure what she's gotten herself into by traveling with the Doctor. Overall, a good start to this trilogy.
