Daddy's Little Princess

Synopsis

7-year-old co-author Morgan E. Taylor thinks that every little girl should believe she's a Princess. Unfortunately, most of the common images of Princesses do not represent the rich diversity of royalty. Daddy's Little Princess introduces real-life African Queens and Princesses in all shades. This book educates, builds self-esteem and inspires young readers to embrace their greatness.

Morgan E. Taylor was six years-old when she co-authored Daddy's Little Princess in 2015. Her book introduces real and historical Princesses of color from around the world. The idea is to remind little girls that Princesses come in all shades. Over the past 15 years, G. Todd Taylor, has served his community through his family business Uplift Comprehensive Services and through his nonprofit organization The Power of U. Uplift Comprehensive Services provides Behavioral Health services to troubled youth throughout eastern North Carolina with strategic partnerships with the Department of Juvenile Justice, Area Social Service Agencies and the Public Schools. He has worked to divert the school to prison pipeline for countless young people and assisted families to maintain healthy relationships in order to provide homes that give young people the best possible probabilities of success. Through his nonprofit he has partnered with schools churches and civic organizations to provide substance abuse prevention and early intervention services throughout North Carolina in order to curb the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs in youth to give them an increased possibility of a healthy future. Garrett Taylor's commitment to others doesn't stop at his office door. He serves on several boards, including the SBTDC advisory board at ECSU, the Acting Chair of the Greenville Parks and Rec. Commission, the STRIVE of Eastern North Carolina Advisory board as well as the Board Chair of the Heritage Collegiate Leadership Academy of Bertie County, the first charter school in the county. Mr. Taylor is also co-owner of Taylor Made Publishing with his wife Diane Taylor. Taylor Made Publishing has allowed many authors in eastern North Carolina realized their dreams of becoming authors. In addition, Mr. Taylor has also written three children's books; Mommy Where Were You (available for free on www.upliftnc.org or www.taylormadenc.com), Daddy's Little Princess and What Will I Be (both will be available early 2015. He writes stories he hopes that will serve as inspiration to his two children Garrett McConnor and Morgan Elizabeth. His commitment to young people extends to Taylor Made Publishing where he has given internships to students in the art department at ECSU. It is through those internships that he has developed relationships with two dynamic illustrators, Annamarie Lewis and Delayna Robbins.

I bought this book for my boyfriend and his beautiful baby girl. She's a beautiful mix of chocolate and has the gorgeous hair to prove it. I bought this because of the brown skinned girl on the cover, so that little mama could relate. I'm so glad I bought it; dad and baby girl share such a sweet bond and this book helps show it.

Nicely written and I love the real pictures of the Princess and Queens in the book. Walt Disney could learn a thing or two from this book when making their next movie for little girls.

Awesome book and so wonderful for all children, knowing they can be a princess no matter what nationality/Race they are!

A wonderful book that my granddaughter loves.

My daughter loved this book! I was able to show her that royalty can look just like her. We googled each woman portrayed in the book and read the bio about them. Just to see the smile on her face, made me even happier! She even enjoyed her autograph edition book :).

I love this book The young lay I gave the book to is just memorize whenever the book is read to her.

I plan to buy more books from the author.

My daughter loves loves the book. I read it to her every night.

It was a gift for my godchild. The book was well written. The picture were awesome. Thank you..
