Customer Reviews

Bought this copy for a Pastor friend. I reread mine routinely and find something new each time. The teachings in this book are timeless.

This is truly a wonderful book for slow meditative reading .Short readings make it convenient but oh so rich in thought. Worthy of many readings!

Great meditative writing by someone who knew and lived with Thomas Merton. Fr. Kelty inspired me to become a priest and these writings help a person to look into themselves.

A beautiful set of homilies from a humane lovingperspective. Fr. Kelty OSCO helps us open oureyes to a loving creator.

This is an excellent book. I am very much enjoying it. It arrived in good condition and very promptly after ordering.

fr. mathew kelty entered the gethsemani monestary after his 40th birthday and learned the ways of Trappist life while Thomas Merton was in charge of the education of novices. the underlying theme of all of fr. mathew's writing seems to be the resounding beauty of life that is waiting just beneath the surface for all of us to discover. this excellent collection of journal entries and homilies give the reader a wonderful idea of how the world appears to a trappist monk.

He was Thomas Merton's last confessor. Worth reading for that alone.
